The Spiritual Journey from Fundamentalism to Unitarian Universalism

Are you a former fundamentalist or evangelical? What happened to bring you through the great doors of Arlington Street Church and into the big tent of Unitarian Universalism? What did you love? Why did you leave? What are you still trying to understand? What do you need now? If you’re interested in an evening of sharing your story and reflecting on these questions with those who have made similar spiritual journeys, please speak with Rev. Kim or email her at office@ASCBoston.org. This will be a closed meeting, but a later gathering on the same topic will be open to the larger congregation.

THIS WEEK

Peace Walk: “Peace is the Way: Offering Peace at Every Step”

Today ~ 2:00 PM, Copley Sq. (to leave all together, meet Rev. Kim at our Great Doors at 1:30)

Vietnamese Zen Master Thich Nhat Hanh, nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize by Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., will lead a peace walk from Trinity Church in Copley Square with the theme “Peace is the Way: Offering Peace at Every Step.” Zen master, author, poet and peace activist Thich Nhat Hanh invites everyone to walk mindfully together in silence, generating the energy of peace, solidity, and freedom.

Thay (Vietnamese for “Teacher”) writes, “There is no walk for peace; peace is the walk. By walking, we generate peace within our body, our consciousness. We embrace and heal the pain, the sorrow, the fear in us, and that is the ground for helping peace to be a reality in the world.”

Before the Peace Walk, you are invited to participate in a silent, seated, meditation, guided by Thich Nhat Hanh at Copley Square.

This is a walk open to everyone, from every path, experienced or not. Participation is free; no tickets are necessary. The organizers kindly ask that there be no display of any banners or signs, nor giving out of flyers during the Peace Walk.

Words and Songs

Saturday, October 5th ~ 7:30 PM, Sanctuary

What happens when a noted Boston-area humorist and columnist joins forces with an award-winning singer and songwriter to share the same stage? The result is "Words and Songs," premiering at Arlington Street Church.

Judah Leblang, storyteller and author of Bay Windows' column "Life in the Slow Lane," teams up with singer/songwriter Maria Sangiolo to present two views of life 'outside the box.' When Sangiolo combines her songs centered on life as a mother and songwriter in a small rural town with Leblang's musings as an urban, gay single man navigating the road through middle age, the outcome ranges from lyrically poignant to achingly hilarious.

Tickets are available at judahleblang.com—$12 for Arlington Street members and $15 for the general public.

We invite you to cut out this calendar and clip it to your refrigerator or bulletin board or, view the full calendar at ASCBoston.org

On the Rocks Is a Form of Life: Philosophy & Addiction

Sunday, October 20th ~ 12:30 PM, Hunnewell Chapel

What an honor to welcome New York Times columnist Peg O'Connor for a talk and book signing! All are welcome!

How does a person make meaning or sense of her life when she feels defeated and worthless and experiences the world as alien, hostile, and devoid of meaning? Some of us looked to alcohol and drugs as a way to cope with our realities. In asking questions such as, "what kind of person do I want to be," or "who am I and why am I like this," and "does any of this matter in the bigger scheme of things," a person is seeking self understanding and an understanding of her place in the world. For millennia, philosophy has been grappling unapologetically with questions about meaning and value, seeking understanding of human nature and the human condition. This talk addresses addiction and recovery from a western philosophical perspective. Rates of addiction to alcohol, illicit drugs, and prescription drugs are reaching epidemic proportions. More people are interrogating themselves about their relationships to these substances and behaviors. This interrogation, the ancient Greek philosopher Socrates might claim, is about examining one's life. "On the Rocks" introduces some of the core concepts and vexing questions of philosophy as a way to help addicts and those affected by our addictions to examine ours and perhaps transform our relationship to our drugs or behaviors of choice. A recovering alcoholic for more than 25 years and a philosophy professor for 18, philosophy helped the speaker get and stay sober.

The Wednesdays: Huckleberry Finn

Wednesdays, October 23rd, November 6th & 13th ~ 6:00 PM, The Froth

Please join Professor Alan Helms and Rev. Kim for Arlington Street's fall literary salon: Mark Twain's Huckleberry Finn!

Hemingway said that "All modern American literature comes from one book by Mark Twain called Huckleberry Finn," and generations of readers and writers have agreed. Published in England in 1884, it appeared the next year in the United States and was immediately banned throughout the country. A century and a half later, it's still a controversial book because it forces us to confront the central problem of American life: our national tragedy of slavery.

Professor Helms writes, "It's an extremely important book but also one of the most delightful and memorable novels ever written. Its vivid characters, antic events, and hilarious satire make for compulsive reading. I know of no other American novel that is as much fun and also as profound as Huck Finn." Join us as we explore this towering, necessary, and mesmerizing American masterpiece.
