Welcome, Families!

If you have arrived with a baby or small child who becomes restless, there's a nursery/playroom with the service piped in for your listening pleasure. Go through the leather door to the right of the pulpit and cross through the chapel. The nursery will be on your left before the stairs.

September Share the Plate: PetPals

PetPals are canine and feline volunteers (and their human companions) who visit elderly residents in long-term care facilities. PetPals volunteers are screened, trained, and matched with one of 36 sites in metro Boston. These teams bring the "healing power of pets" to over 650 elders every week. Numerous studies have shown that pet visitation programs increase social interaction among nursing home residents, reduce agitation in Alzheimer's patients, and ease the pervasive loneliness that often occurs in long-term care facilities. The wagging tails of the dogs and the purring of the cats bring smiles and laughter to the faces of nursing home residents. For more information or to become a volunteer, please speak with Art Nava or visit fw4elders.org/our-programs/petpals.
Thank you for your generosity!

A Note on Today's Offertory

India has a rich and deep musical tradition dating back thousands of years.

Like the West, India has a large and structured set of music schools and conservatories where students are trained to be virtuoso musicians beginning at a very early age. But unlike Western schooling, which is based on learning to read and interpret written sheet music, Indian musical instruction is based almost exclusively on aural tradition and improvisation.

Most Indian ensemble consists of one or two percussionists to provide the rhythm, which is superimposed over a shruti box that drones the root and fifth of the scale for the duration of the piece. Indian music is based on the melody creating and resolving dissonance with this drone rather than on functional harmony. The melodic players or singers either perform in unison or alternate, often imitating each other—they rarely create harmony or polyphony. This arrangement attempts to reproduce these traditional sounds (drone, drums, and melody) using only the human voice.

Harmonic overtone singing is partially used to emulate the shruti box. Several times, the choir chants "percussion solos" using sollakattu or rhythmic solfege. Whereas Western music uses syllables (Do, Re, Mi) to understand pitch, Indian music uses syllables to understand rhythmic patterns. It is common to hear percussionists speak a rhythm in syllables and then play the same rhythm on the drum as an echo.

The term raga generally refers to the specific scale upon which a piece of Indian music is based. There are well over 400 specific ragas which have been defined and named in the classical Indian tradition. Some are seven notes ascending and the same seven notes descending like Western scales, but others contain more or fewer notes with a variety of chromaticism, and others have different patterns in which the melody ascends or descends.

In most cases, a raga consists of an improvised introductory section or allap, which is slow and introduces the notes of the scale. This is usually followed by a faster section based upon the notes of the raga. Desh is one of the simplest and most beautiful ragas, identical to the major scale when ascending and lowering the seventh scale degree when descending.

This arrangement's allap is a lullaby where the word "mola" or "sleep" is chanted in a seven beat rhythmic cycle. The melody then moves into a faster cycle in cut time as the piece gradually evolves from a meditation into a frenzied—and finally ecstatic—experience.

choral arrangement: Mac Huff (b. 1955)

Chorus

Reach out and touch
Somebody's hand
Make this world a better place
If you can
Take a little time out of your busy day
To give encouragement
To someone who's lost the way
Or would I be talking to a stone
If I asked you
To share a problem that's not your own
We can change things if we start giving

Chorus

If you see an old friend on the street
And he's down
Remember his shoes could fit your feet
Try a little kindness you'll see
It's something that comes very naturally
We can change things if we start giving in our mission of love, service, justice, and peace. As a convenient option, you may text the word GIVE to (617) 300-0509 (all texted gifts support church operations) or scan the QR code. Thank you for your stewardship and support!

*HYMN

Put a Little Love in Your Heart ..... Jackie DeShannon (b. 1941) arrangement: Mark David Buckles (b. 1980)

Think of your fellow man
Lend him a helping hand
Put a little love in your heart
You see it's getting late
Oh, please don't hesitate
Put a little love in your heart
And the world will be a better place
And the world will be a better place
For you and me, just wait and see
Another day goes by
And still the children cry
Put a little love in your heart
If you want the world to know
We won't let hatred grow
Put a little love in your heart
And the world will be a better place
And the world will be a better place
For you and me, just wait and see
Just wait and see
Take a good look around
And if you're lookin' down
Put a little love in your heart
And I hope when you decide
Kindness will be your guide
Put a little love in your heart
Put a little love in your heart (repeat)
